

Eiterfeld, 19. Juli 2019

Metal construction company Knoblauch reinforced b+m surface systems

The team of metal construction company Metallbau Knoblauch from Vacha in Thuringia will strengthen b+m surface systems GmbH from Eiterfeld by now. From 01.07.2019, Vacha will be the centre for metal and sheet metal processing of b+m surface systems.

Metallbau Knoblauch and b+m surface systems have been working together successfully for many years on industrial projects. This includes, for example, support in the assembly and commissioning of fully-automatic painting systems.

The Thuringian metal construction company Metallbau Knoblauch looks back on 350 years of company history. The knowledge and skills of the metalworking craft were passed on within the family over many generations. Successful projects and positive experiences suggested a closer cooperation. So the infrastructure of an industrial company can be combined with the flexibility, speed and skills of a certified company. The team of Metallbau Knoblauch already has an excellent reputation at the customers of b+m today. „The continuation of the successful cooperation with the existing customers and the positive long-term development of the location in Vacha was very important to me“, says Sven Knoblauch.

The team of Metallbau Knoblauch from Vacha will strengthen b+m from now. All existing customers of the metal construction company Metallbau Knoblauch will continue to be competently supported by the team around Sven Knoblauch.

„We are very happy to welcome the experienced employees of Metallbau Knoblauch to b+m“, added Sebastian Merz, managing director of b+m surface systems GmbH.

About b+m surface systems

b+m surface systems GmbH, based in Eiterfeld, is one of the technology leaders in the manufacture of fully automatic painting systems. The owner-managed company employs around 420 people worldwide. The company from Eiterfeld manufactures important key components itself, including the two in-house robot series T1 X5 and T2 X5.

Pictures/signatures:

Metal construction expert Sven Knoblauch (left) and managing partner of b+m surface systems Sebastian Merz (right) seal the closer cooperation.

Contact for editorial offices

b+m surface systems GmbH
Corporate Communications

Fon: +49 (0) 6672 9292-518
corpcom@bm-systems.com